

Chocolate with Vitamin C

chocolate, vitamin-c, ascorbic-acid

anonimUser01 1 October 1, 2022, 6:51pm

I tasted dark chocolate with vitamin C. How can I remove the chemical taste, the orange version is also nice 😊

UfukAyyildiz 2 October 1, 2022, 10:01pm

Hi Cemile,

Is it a bitter taste?

Is taste a after taste?

What is amount of vit. C in final product?

1 Like

Roy 3 October 2, 2022, 7:44am

Thats a vague t description...

Describe exactly your actual sensory experience of chemical taste.in that chocolate.

Compared to what substance you has experienced tasting before.?

1 Like

Pastahobo 4 October 17, 2022, 1:41am

Ascorbic acid is tart tasting. Is that what you're experiencing? If it's a chemical taste, you need another source, as what you are using is not pure enough. Have worked with vitamin C in beverages and even to stabilize wine, with zero chemical off flavours.

3 Likes

Fiona 5 December 21, 2022, 8:42pm

maybe it was the artificial aroma inside the vitamin c concentrate which was put to mask the medicinal taste that you were tasting?

1 Like

TastesNatural 6 January 17, 2023, 4:24pm

Hi friend,

Sounds like an issue a bitter blocker can help with. Take a look at TastesNatural for all-natural, clean-label products and read through the applications page to review successful work with chemical taste in products.

Also, the R+D team usually tries to help customers on finding custom solutions, which tends to make the process go quicker.

1 Like